The organic sauces good, wholesome and right!

In our opinion, organic primarily means wholesome food which is profitable for health: all of this in a holistic vision of mankind and its relationship with nature. It means producing "right" food in the scrupulous observance of organic regulations, which are committed to protect environment from pollution and to set animals free from exploitation.

We consciously made the choice of organic to make our contribution to protect environment, to reduce pollution and to preserve natural resources for future generations' sake. As careful gourmet, we chose organic food because it is tastier, better and more satisfying.

To sublimate the principles of organic and gourmet, has decided to use for the first time unique nutraceutical ingredients. The nutraceuticals are commonly referred to as "functional foods". They combine nutritional components selected for particular characteristics (such as highly digestible and hypoallergenic) with the healing properties of natural active ingredients with proven and recognized effectiveness. The nutraceuticals are usually derived from plants, from food and from microbial sources.

The Indians, Egyptians, Chinese and Sumerians are just a few civilizations that have provided evidence suggesting that foods can be effectively used as medicine to treat and prevent disease. sauces: a unique, genuine taste, as it were homemade!
